The great spiritual pilgrimage of Lent is now underway. On Ash Wednesday, with our foreheads daubed with ashes, we began our Lenten journey together with Pope Francis and millions of our brothers and sisters throughout the world. In every country, the Catholic community is listening attentively to God's invitation to prayer, fasting and almsgiving. May this pilgrimage of faith, hope and charity bring real renewal to the Catholic Church in our age, especially to the Eucharistic life of the church on a Sunday; Holy Mass on a Sunday will always be the heart of Catholic life, the source and summit of all that we do. We are among the Christians of the 21st century and the faith of the church has been handed on to us with great reverence. Lent is an opportunity for each one of us to receive anew the wonderful gift of Christ the Saviour and his liberating gospel. Let us make it our very own!.

In today's liturgy Matthew's account of the temptation and the abridged version of the fall are both characterised by lies, half truths and 'spin' on the commands of God. Our need for redemption springs from our choosing illusory truths and abandoning what we know deep down is the path that leads to life. Today's readings expose that dynamic not to dispirit us but rather that we may have our eyes opened.

An important part of our Lenten journey in Scotland is the support we give to SCIAF, the Scottish Catholic International Aid Fund, which seeks to support some of the poorest people on our planet. It is a chance to sow seeds of hope and to give others a chance at life by sharing some of our own good fortune and blessings. At the back of our churches this weekend you will find some SCIAF wee boxes. Perhaps we could keep our own wee box in our kitchen and as we share food together we might pray each day for those who will be helped by what we give through the wee box; they are our brothers and sisters and they deserve our support and encouragement.

Let us try to make this Lent at St. Mary's and St. Paul's a special outpouring of love for the poorest of the poor in our world.
